HOW TO USE THIS REPORT

In the pages which follow, you will see descriptions of your character traits, relationship potentials and challenges, as well as career potentials, and even more.

All or most of these sometimes intimate descriptions will be linked in some way with your past lives and your experiences in the planetary realms between lifetimes (the interlife).

Yet, you may ask, how can this information best be used?

First, HELP YOURSELF. The enclosed uplifting commentary can only be truly beneficial if you see it as a means of self-help and self-transformation. So to get the maximum practical benefit out of each page of this report, focus on connecting what you read with what is going on in your life now.

Next, LOOK FOR PATTERNS. When you see repeated references -- for instance to similar careers, pursuits or vocations -- you should consider these references seriously. They demonstrate a positive karmic connection which you now have with these same career-related potentials from past life endeavors. So, because of prior life success, these areas of expression should be easier for you to find rewarding or to succeed in, as compared with in other areas.

Also, pay close attention to REMEDIAL MEASURES. For instance, you may be given an affirmation to use in meditation (or a prayer). Or you may be given a crystal/gemstone to wear. These means of balancing out challenging vibrations can indeed be very helpful, especially if used in a hopeful manner.

Finally, this report is a synthesis of past life and planetary interlife interpretations originally given clairvoyantly by Edgar Cayce, for individuals with your same planetary patterns at birth. So in applying this report to your personal life, you should RESPECT INNER GUIDANCE --through dreams, meditation and past life regression for example -- as primary resources for this kind of information; and most important, RESPECT YOUR FREE WILL! You alone must choose and know what is really best for you.

Your birth chart interpretation is based on the positions of the planets at the time of your birth.

Astrologer Ry Redd calculated on computer the astrology charts for hundreds of people who received readings by Edgar Cayce which contained astrologically based information. By studying these astrology charts, Ry Redd determined what planetary influences were most likely responsible for the readings by Edgar Cayce. In many cases the astrological basis of the Cayce readings appears to be very straightforward. From this information Ry Redd was able to develop, in conjunction with the computer programmers at Cosmic Patterns Software, an analysis of your birth chart as Ry Redd believes that Edgar Cayce's psychic readings would have interpreted it. Ry Redd's research effort was exhaustive and was conducted over many years, some of which was spent at the Edgar Cayce library at the Association for Research and Enlightenment headquarters in Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Your Sun harmoniously aspects Neptune.

Your mystical, intuitive and spiritual sensitivity arises from your past lives, perhaps in early Roman times, or in the Egyptian/late Atlantean period. Then you may have been a seer with expertise in the religious mysteries of the day and in healing through the laying of hands. Your likely interest in group meditation, symbology, holistic health, and astrological timing arises from such past life experiences.

From your afterlife experience in the Neptune dimension, your imaginative urges create strong mystical impressions within you. At times, when you meditate or simply rest, the actions expressed in your visions and daydreams may elicit such intense emotions that you may feel as if you had actually experienced them.

Since Neptune is a higher octave of Venus, ruler of the arts, your Neptunian attunement and sensitivity give you abilities related to the arts in virtually any direction, whether as an actor, a dancer, an artist, musician or art critic.

Although you would do well in any creative endeavor, you are also gifted with healing power, especially in applying, for example, music and color to emotional disturbances. Hence, combining analytical or depth psychology with your creative and mystical sensitivities may suggest fields that will bring you deep understanding, if judged from the spiritual side.

You may also achieve a great deal through service for others, caring for others, helping those less fortunate. To be a channel of blessings to others is the purpose of every soul coming into the material world. For you particularly, serving others may have special rewards. If it is in keeping with your ideals, you would gain much in service involving an organized charitable institution or missionary branch of a church denomination. Public leadership involving large organizations through speaking to groups and writing is also indicated.

In addition, things that come over water or upon water are likely to be significant in your experience. Travel and law, especially in connection with these, should also be a portion of your activities. [997-1, 2835-1, 2483-2, 2855-1, 1442-1, 2326-1, 315-4]

Your Sun is in an inharmonious pattern with Mars.

Your past lives probably were highlighted by wandering and searching for wisdom from land to land, say as an early American pioneer-settler journeying from England for religious liberty, or as a member of one of the Lost Tribes of Israel who traveled very far to help build Stonehenge, or as one of the nomads under Joshua who endured great hardships fighting for the ideal of the One True God. These traveling urges are likely to manifest in the present as potentials for success in movement and dance as well as athletics and more health-oriented activities such as exercise and massage.

From these past lives and your afterlife experience in the Mars sphere of awareness, you very much have a will of your own which at times may border on being too strong-minded and self-determined. You also have considerable courage which is inclined to turn into anger. For your greater development in the present lifetime it will be well for you to curb your impatient tendencies. Otherwise there might well be detrimental experiences like developing a surly and sullen attitude toward people and life.

Another emotional area to watch is that of jealousies arising. Unless your inclinations toward anger and concurrent actions are reduced, you may experience spiritual retardment this lifetime which will have to be met eventually in another life.

Incidentally, you should absolutely avoid any contact whatever with firearms, as such weapons are very dangerous for you (regardless of how you may have needed them in your past pioneering lifetimes). You may have a strong peace loving attitude from the standpoint of military affairs and law enforcement, yet may be able to rationalize the use of force of arms, whether firearms as such or other means of force. These karmic-psychological approaches to and rationalizations of using force and violence could bring you serious changes this lifetime.

Poor indeed is the one who never shows anger, yet much worse off is one who cannot control it. Here is an area of life, of course, where most people fail, so you are certainly not alone. Often those who quickly flare up also quickly forgive. This is an excellent attitude or spiritual ideal for you to follow in controlling your Martian temper: remain as the little child, ever ready to forgive and be forgiven; ever ready to be guided by the will of the Almighty.

While it is best put into your own words -- or rephrased as a personal affirmation -- saying the following prayer may be helpful. "May I learn to deal with impatience, Lord. Show me how to modify my natural inclination of wanting to move ahead too quickly. If it's true that I'm overly ambitious, or if I need to prove my superiority over others, help me realize that only a more moderate, level-headed approach will ultimately succeed. Before pushing ahead blindly, I pray that I may know for what I am striving. Teach me appreciation, Lord, so that even the small, insignificant victories in my life will have real meaning for me." [1467-3]

Your Sun is conjoined with Venus.

From your previous lives you have an especially strong home- and community-loving influence. Often having a very friendly feeling toward others, you enjoy being supportive and nurturing toward those in whom you are interested. And your artistic talents -- whether decorating and design or photography, or even music -- should be developed. You are also encouraged to consider an avocation or creative hobby like making ornamental ceramics and pottery that is both beautiful, artistic and practical. All of these Venusian talents have originated in past lives when you followed either identical or closely related pursuits (for instance, you were probably an artist at least once in your cosmic past).

These inclinations from your prior incarnations, as well as a soul journey in the Venus dimension between lives, additionally give you a love for peace, understanding, contentment, hope, faith, vision, longsuffering and loving-kindness. You especially identify with love and peace, having a broad vision dealing with things that grow in nature. The manifestations of LIFE greatly interest you, particularly sights of such beauties in nature as it opens to the blessings of rain in the afternoon or sunrise in the morning. Birds singing, bees buzzing and the rose -- by just being beautiful -- express joy to you by their using a portion of LIFE, of God, even for only a short time.

This is not to say that you should worship things that bring material pleasures and ease, whether they be natural or manmade. Instead, keep your heart singing: see images of the Master's face in the rising and setting of the sun and the loveliness of bright moonlight as it turns everything into the radiance of His glory. See in rain, storms, everything in nature, even the ugly, painful things in people's lives, as desires for growth and expression rather than as disorders and hate.

Hope springing anew would spread to all people everywhere if they could become aware of and appreciate this consciousness of life which is yours. For your love of life blesses your associations with those to whom you can do good through your kindness and gentleness to them. You are thereby truly using God in the life He gives you. [2060-2, 2100-1, 1434-1, 2185-1, 2385-1, 2328-1, 1745-1, 2402-2, 2895-1]

Your Moon is conjoined with Mars.

Your mental tendencies can be used beneficially toward your greater soul development. For instance, obeying the rule of converting stumbling blocks to stepping stones -- that is, all challenges are opportunities in disguise -- this pattern helps you in your career, especially in the competition encountered in the business world.

It gives you distinct advantages as a manager, supervisor or as an executive, particularly in physically active endeavors (examples include athletics, construction or mechanics and in even more Martian pursuits like the military or law enforcement). These vocations and activities are also some of your likely past life areas of accomplishment, and are therefore easier for you than for most people.

However, from past lives as well as your afterlife soul journey in the Martian dimension of anger and wrath, your will must be exercised to avoid outbreaks of emotion and to control your temper. Alternatively, at times you may appear to suppress your anger, but later this suppression must find an outlet, an expression in some form. Take care that your temperamental nature and tendencies toward suppression of your more aggressive emotions does not affect your health. Be specifically on the lookout for disorders physically with your throat, head and digestive organs. Being forewarned, precautions can then be taken respecting these conditions.

Because of karmic emotions and subconscious urges from your experience as a soul between lives in the energetic consciousness dimension of Mars, you may also tend to act impulsively without enough forethought. If you are female this aspect may bring challenges through the male side of your subconscious.

This means that until you exercise your will to resolve this conflict you are likely to find it difficult to relate to men in the outer world. Frequently being too aggressive, and at times even opinionated and confrontational in your attitude, you may even dislike those of your own sex because of this lack of femininity.

As an aid to working with these challenges, consider using a prayer worded something like, "Without your help, Lord, I find that I often carry a storehouse of tension inside me. When I am provoked, it explodes with a power that I am at a loss to control. Therefore I pray that You will show me how to handle my emotions better. If I am too swift or too harsh in my reactions, may I learn to practice forbearance in my dealings with others." [1156-1, 1923-1]

Your Moon is in an inharmonious pattern with Jupiter.

Upon reentering the earth plane to begin your present life, you chose a time when Jupiter was in a challenging pattern with respect to the Moon's orbit around the earth. This symbolized and helped bring into your awareness the need to overcome the more difficult side of your soul experience in the interlife dimension of Jupiter and in past lives when you were involved with "Jupiterian" individuals.

For instance, you may attract to you souls who treat you like you treated them in previous lifetimes. These people (who are likely to be in prominent positions today, just as they were in the deep past) mirror your personal yet cosmic history by presenting to you opportunities to meet yourself as you were then. The influences of Jupiter open up opportunities for you to choose to pursue activities dealing with groups and the public.

Yet using YOUR thoughts and actions as examples for others, you may be guided in the way and manner as to sway the emotions and thoughts of the many. Especially will this be so if presented as an expression of Christ's love, of His activity. For the time is fulfilled when many must and will become as channels, as emissaries, for the teachings which are the foundation of Him who gave those promises to all people, "Love me; keep my commandments."

As an example of a more challenging karmic pattern, over borrowing and extravagance concerning otherwise ample financial resources could bring you losses, as could placing your faith in the wrong people or wrong causes. Here, setting the highest ideals you know can be invaluable. All you need do is use your free will to apply these ideals with modesty and humility.

While likely to be friendly and indulgent rather than antagonistic toward others, you may still have tendencies toward procrastination -- and even laziness at times -- which may well be valuable balances against stress and tension.

Also, be cautious about self-indulgence in eating and drinking, as this may bring you difficulties with your liver. [1156-1]

Your Moon is in an inharmonious pattern with Venus.

You may experience particularly painful emotions at times of feeling unloved and unappreciated. The Moon is reflecting those emotions back to you from your past relationships and experiences, both in the Venus dimension of love and in previous incarnations in the earth. Your vulnerability and hypersensitivity involving affection is probably linked with one who in your previous life was, or in this life is, your mother. Also in a past life you may have been unloving and uncooperative. This may be blocking you from experiencing more love and cooperation from others in the present.

You can balance this part of your akashic account by continually giving a great deal more than you seem to receive and by bending over backwards to compromise in your relationships. Then you will see more and more love coming back into your life. To have friends one must be friendly and to receive love one must give love. Thus your subconscious tendency to feel unloved, neglected or rejected will be overcome by actively, willfully CHOOSING to be more loving and cooperative.

Financially you may have a tendency toward carelessness, and therefore need greater wisdom in handling your money, especially in setting spending priorities. You are more likely than most to experience both very lucky periods as well as periods when everything you deal with may seem to "go to pot."

These ups and downs relate especially to your investments and expenses stemming from tendencies such as overindulgence in evening pleasures like partying. Disappointments come from this inclination toward self-aggrandizement. This can be balanced by learning to apply your all-powerful will to control and develop yourself, as if you were pushing yourself to exercise harder.

Remember that the Creative Forces have given each of us both the power to be over all that has been created in the material realm, and the opportunity to work with the constructive forces in the spiritual realm. If these become clouded by self-aggrandizement, by self-indulgence, by the desire for fame and fortune, then we become confused and erratic. But if we continuously look to the spiritual value in our relationships with the mental and material, there is harmony, peace, understanding and wisdom in the knowledge of the divinity within.

You may face other challenges in your social interactions. Here is a prayer aid for this which you could phrase in your own words: "Sometimes I feel uneasy or inept in a social atmosphere, Lord, yet I realize that I may serve your purpose to have me interact with people. Therefore I pray You will teach me how to handle myself better when I am among strangers or in unfamiliar surroundings. Prevent me from feeling nervous, self-conscious, or intimidated by others, lest I allow these fears to stop me from seeking growth through personal relationships. By extending my hand in friendship to those that I meet, I ask that all my apprehensions will cease." [2855-1, 257-5, 2459-1]

Your Moon forms a square pattern with Sun.

You chose a birth time when the Greater and Lesser Lights, the Sun and Moon, were adversely aspecting each other. Now, the Moon directly mirrors your past life emotions, while the Sun is the medium through which your soul force shines outwardly as a unique personality in the present. At your birth these two all-important Luminaries were squared off with one another in the zodiac. This set before you challenges to meet from your past lives. And your material or physical experiences emotionally may become the greater urges at times. Yet the innate and deeper urge, from your past life experience with what you have set as your guiding ideal become more impelling in your quieter moments (in meditation and just being still).

Most of the obstacles you face center on a basic conflict between your will, personality and emotions, which is linked with your parents, with whom you have karma to work out from previous lives. (If you are male, this karmic link will be more with your mother; if female, more with your father.)

There are two major ways this challenge is likely to manifest. First, you may tend to blame your parents rather than yourself for emotional difficulties which prevent you from following the life you want. You may have been separated from one or both of your parents when you were young. In this instance you may find yourself always seeking fresh experiences, but without the stamina or stability to follow through successfully. This is a classic case of being your own worst enemy, and requires an extra exertion of will power to observe yourself closely.

See to it that your actions truly live up to your personal ideals and spiritual goals. Doing this prayerfully, all else will gradually fall into place. "When I examine my attitudes, Lord, I sometimes find that they are not in harmony with my actions. Teach me how I may better coordinate these two sides of my nature, how I may align my inner feelings with my outer approach to life. Do not let either my heart or my head govern my behavior, Lord. May they both work together cooperatively, forming a personality that is at peace with itself and with others." [3188-1]

Your Mercury is conjoined with Saturn.

You have considerable depth of mind yet have the exceptionally challenging experience --from your Saturn indwelling -- of continual changes in life. One day every indicator of success will be present regarding a given relationship or endeavor and the next day it will appear to dissolve. This is probably karmically rooted in your finding many individuals in whom you have placed your faith or confidence to have shaken that faith by letting you down.

With application of your will, you can turn this into a distinct opportunity which can prove very beneficial for not only your soul development but also your overall material success. Because you are so ambitious, your characteristic inclinations toward hard work and persistence should guarantee this for you. [195-14, 2328-1]

Your Venus harmoniously aspects Neptune.

You have a gentle, unassuming yet refined attitude to your friends and loved ones. Together with your outstanding integrity, these positive character traits are likely throughout your life to attract people who want to help and support you, though not necessarily in a material sense. Except for bringing attunement and resources by being near or traveling over large bodies of water -- and innately have the seashores, lakesides and riversides often called to you as a place to live -- Neptune's blessings are primarily spiritual and well beyond the three dimensional plane.

You may have been a devoted priest/ess or nun in a not-so-distant past life, and before that, a seer-diviner in the Holy Land during the time of Jesus. Your sacrifice and loving service then earned you interlife experiences in the planetary realms of love and spirituality, Venus and Neptune. So at the time of your birth, you chose to re-enter the earth when your soul flight paths from Venus and Neptune were in a very favorable angle.

More important, your past life of loving, nurturing and serving others together with this opportune time of rebirth will bring you a major opportunity this lifetime to manifest a deep love bond. This will probably be with another soul who is on a similar spiritual path.

You also have latent but strong musical and artistic talents, along with powerful intuitive, even at times mystical and psychic gifts. Were you to develop these abilities, especially with your love of the arts, you could become an inspired artist/musician who lifts the spirit of all who experience your creativity and inspiration.

Most important, a greater and greater influence in your life will be found by being QUIET within. This is best done by listening to the still small voice in your body-temple, where the Christ has promised to meet all of us who seek to know and walk with Him. He has also promised to be your counsel, your guard and protector: hold fast to your faith in Him. Do remember the Christ prayerfully also in your joys, as well as your sadness; in your pleasures as well as pains.

Hence, in your past lives you counseled and gave strength to many people. In this life, as before, you can share -- after attuning yourself for instance through voices, musical sounds, the sounds of the sea and wind -- a strength in the Christ that will keep you in your way while helping you in counseling others.

These latent and manifest inner talents and outward opportunities are a result of your past lifetimes and soul travels between lives in the spiritual dimensions of Venus and Neptune. However, no urge is greater than your own individual choice. Therefore, as to whether or not there is overall development toward Oneness in this life depends entirely on what you hold as your IDEAL, and even more important, on what you do mentally and physically RESPECTING that same ideal. Once a soul has advanced to the level of ideals which you hold, then having a sincerity of purpose in what you do is far superior to ANY urges, whether they be from past lives or from the planets. [963-1, 99-6, 1222-1, 2444-1]

Your Venus is in an inharmonious pattern with Mars.

While constructively emphasizing your virtues and minimizing any shortcomings, there is yet the need to point out your personal challenges from a likely Mars experience between earth lives. Perhaps after having experienced the love, beauty and sentiment of Venus, you chose to return to a new incarnation by way of the Mars dimension. There you probably undid a lot of what you learned during your otherwise fortunate soul sojourn in the domain of the love planet.

For instance, in Mars there is the inclination to be self-centered. Not in a hugely selfish way, but instead through a powerful determination to have your own way, even if shown that other means might be better.

This challenge is mostly indicated in your relationships with the opposite sex, especially your spouse. In such circumstances, your passion and power drive conflicts with your love nature. At these times you may be impelled by a one-track mind, being incapable then of giving consideration to your partner's point of view. Yet from your experience in Venus, you are able to express your more sentimental feelings and affections upon occasion, but more as an emotional release valve than a means of giving and sharing love.

While the means by which you go about your associations with others have often brought you a pleasing love life or marital relations on one hand or success in business activities on the other, frequently they have brought consternation as well. If only to gratify bodily desires or to satisfy material positions in power or place in the world, they must eventually rust and eat away at the body-mind until there is even destruction to the soul.

Bear in mind that all urges from astrological or planetary experiences and influences are merely inclinations and tendencies: you do NOT necessarily have to react to them at all if you so choose. Instead, study, even saturate your consciousness with the promises of love and forgiveness in the Scriptures. Then, applying your will toward ideals derived from the Source in all phases of your relationships you will be more happy, harmonious and truly successful.

You might try the following prayer as an inner tool for working with these challenges. Put in your own words, it goes something like, "Lord, when my initial enthusiasm begins to wane and I find myself wondering why

I chose a certain course of action or relationship with another, please give me patience and remind me that it takes an extra effort of will to maintain an interest, as it takes unconditional love in order to sustain a relationship. If difficulties arise, show me what You require, when I should proceed, when I should withdraw, when to take decisive action and when to surrender to another's wishes. In all situations, Lord, may I be helped to eliminate selfish interest which alienate those I really love." [2062-1, 1201-2, 531-1]

Your Jupiter is in an inharmonious pattern with Saturn.

"The merchant is never the student, nor is the student ever the merchant." You might heed this saying, for your experience in Saturn brings you such changes in your career that you may muddle it up by going in too many directions at once. While you have a great deal of soul development potential this lifetime -- and this go 'round for you is critical, as it is for most of us -- you could defeat yourself through an inclination at times to "give up." You thereby evade the responsibilities which come with having such powers and talents as you possess.

The main self-defeating pattern to watch out for more specifically involves your Saturnian urges for travel, a change of scene, always wanting a fresh start and taking on far more than you can realistically handle. You are also likely to need constant stimulation, with a tendency toward heroics, (but without sufficiently flexing your own spiritual muscles).

Instead, your heroism and hero worship should be replaced with self-direction through following the IDEALS of spiritual heroes, patriarchs and prophets. An added reason for increasing the role of personal ideals for self-direction is your inclination to exploit situations rather than taking constructive advantage of opportunities.

This is not at all to say that you are irresponsible: quite the contrary. You are much more likely to be in positions where you face heavy responsibilities. However, confusions may often come as to the best way to derive the maximum benefit from them, both for yourself and for others. With these burdens comes a lifetime with a vast scope of experience, yet frequently misinterpreted by others (hence the confusion just mentioned).

While at times taken advantage of because of it, you nonetheless usually choose to see only the good in others, and are a natural -- although occasionally confused -- diplomat.

In addition to diplomacy, your Jupiterian experience also gives you considerable vision in the financial, political, social and religious areas of life. Applying yourself in these directions, especially through writing, a lot of help and good will come your way which you can share with a very wide audience. [811-2, 1426-1, 1089-3, 2496-1, 773-1]

Your Uranus harmoniously aspects Neptune.

Uranus is the planetary experience common to those who had prominent incarnations in Atlantis, you and all the other souls born around the same time were probably Atlanteans. One "wave" of reincarnating Atlanteans in this century came in just before World War I, and another wave by the end of World War II. Both waves coincide with major aspect patterns operating between Uranus and Neptune. Born during this second influx of former Atlanteans, you share with many of them indications of having reached a high level of soul development.

Because Uranus and Neptune are two of the slowest-moving outer planets of our star system, the harmonious pattern present at your birth was in effect for several years. Therefore, the beneficent influence from these two psychic- spiritual, higher consciousness planets are shared by a very large number of individuals choosing to incarnate during this period. In fact, the effects of this resourceful aspect are actually on the global soul-family scale of generations and whole nations.

Having reincarnated to continue your pursuit and application of your intuitive spirituality, you are quite capable of grasping spiritual truths firsthand, beyond such sources as books and the experiences of others. Unorthodox in your philosophy of life, you have strong leanings toward the esoteric and mystical. Be sure always to cultivate the spiritual side rather than spiritualistic, occult and psychic phenomena only. So doing, you are likely to make a pioneering contribution through your enthusiasm for a spiritual or a service-oriented cause. You are also likely to appreciate and be talented in art and music, and to experience -- as well as share inspiration from -- your personal vision and high ideals.

While you will probably have many unusual, out-of-the-ordinary experiences mentally and spiritually, do not shut yourself away from the world's disorder and discouragements. Instead, operate openly in the realm where the fruits of the spirit of truth can be manifested. Meditate daily on how you can better manifest patience, love, kindness, gentleness, and bring constructive, helpful, hopeful, healing experiences into the lives of others. [2156-1, 2326-1]

NOTE: The Zodiac signs of the Sun and Moon are analyzed below. First they will be analyzed in the Tropical zodiac. If the positions are different in the Sidereal zodiac, then they will also be analyzed in the Sidereal zodiac. Also, if the Sun and Moon are in the same zodiac sign, then only the Sun position is interpreted; the Moon position, being the same as the Sun position, does not need to be interpreted in this case.

Your Sun is in Cancer (Tropical zodiac).

With the zodiacal sign and influences of Cancer, you are one who would do well in any vocation or career where the classes and masses of people are the ruling factor rather than through endeavors based on mere individual effort alone. Also, working with nature in producing or growing things involved with fields, streams or woods, on one hand, or, on the other, helping to bring fruit from the mental forces of groups (classes and masses) of people could bring you -- and them -- many manifold increases.

As background for these urges and abilities, you may have lived in the Pacific Islands in relatively recent times, or in the much more remote past in the legendary South Pacific sea culture of Lemuria. However, whether you lived in relatively recent historical times or in the distant past, you are very likely to feel a strong affinity with and an innate awe of water. Therefore, you are probably happiest living near great bodies of water, like the ocean or large lakes or rivers.

With a rather special sensitivity to changing weather conditions, you have an intuitive understanding of the power of nature. You may also tend to feel somewhat helpless about events in your life, as if they were somehow predestined or meant to be.

At least one of your past lives was an intensely emotional one, probably lived during matriarchal, close-knit cultures where the lineage was female and children were much more dependent upon their mother or their maternal relatives. In the present, during particularly stressful periods, you may have a tendency to return to this early past life pattern and feel you should not be held totally responsible for your actions or shortcomings. Of course, with prayerful application of your will, this tendency can be overcome. [304-5]

Your Moon is in Libra (Tropical zodiac).

You may remember, in your deeper meditations and dreams, experiences from long ago when you were among great artists, sculptors, poets, and craftsmen of ancient India as well as the more recent leaders of prosperous, classical Greece. Even later day Venice, Florence and other Italian cities developed some of this love of culture, beauty and appreciation of art which you were closely involved with then and which you find rewarding still.

Venus is the planet of love, beauty and art, so it is very appropriate to convey the symbolic essence of the sign Libra, which it rules. Venus' influence through Libra also makes that which is crass and primitive quite unnatural for you to accept gracefully, or to participate in willingly.

You may also have been among many who reincarnated in the American South just before the Civil War. In the present you may have to learn the lesson of providing for your own needs, luxury and comfort rather than having others do provide these things for you. In fact, one of the challenges of Libra lies in being too liberal or indulgent with oneself. With prayerful application of your will, this too can be overcome. [303-31]

Your Sun is in Gemini (Sidereal zodiac).

Coming as you do under the double sign of Gemini, there are likely to be two natures within you as far as your inner, subconscious urges are concerned. One of these urges is to seek to know (and this thirst for knowledge may sometimes involve questionable things or conditions, at least as far as others are concerned). The other part of this dual urge from Gemini's influence is your innate as well as outwardly manifested spiritual seeking for a greater, better and more perfect relationship with another. At times these two urges may be more in conflict than most people ordinarily experience.

Also, as in other in Gemini children this tendency toward double-mindedness at times may find expression in inclinations to change your mind and overspeculate about things. With application of your will, these inclinations can be curbed.

Now, you were probably part of European culture during the Middle Ages, when there was considerable action and adventure, for example in the continual feuding and strife among the many fiefdoms, families, tribes, castles and kingdoms comprising Europe before its present consolidation into several nation-states.

You may even have been among the gentry or upper class of France or England, attending or participating in jousting tournaments, making long journeys to the Crusades against the Muslims in Palestine, or involved with trade exchanges with the caravans going to and from India and China.

In other words, because Mercury is the planet which rules or symbolizes the essence of Gemini, overall you may have experienced in one or more of these lifetimes a sense of restlessness enduring into your present life.

Finally, centuries or even millennia earlier, you may have led a life in what has become known as Australia or on one of its neighboring South Pacific islands. [674-3, 962-1]

Your Moon is in Virgo (Sidereal zodiac).

As to the activities which are innate or outwardly manifested in your life, coming in the astronomical constellation of Virgo, at times you may have the appearance of being too self-sufficient in your relationships with others. Hence you may be considered somewhat eccentric, especially in your choice of associates and friendships.

There is also a likely tendency for you to approach life in a very rational way, resulting in your being considered by others as having a rather materialistic turn of mind. At the same time this also gives you the ability to train or direct the training of the minds of young people.

Long ago, one of your likely past lives was in an ideal nature setting, where you were known for your courage and for your ability to heal. From this distant lifetime you are less likely than most people to be dominated by others and you are usually inclined to carry your share of responsibilities. This experience may have been in South or Central America as a member of one of the native cultures in the Amazon forest of Brazil or the Aztec Indians of Mexico.

Mercury is the planet which rules or symbolizes the essence of the sign Virgo. Higher levels of learning and teaching, then, have been yours in these lifetimes, from successful interaction with nature to more religious pursuits like participating in the Holy Crusades to Palestine and neighboring lands. You may also have followed Alexander the Great on his history-making and Greek culture-expanding military excursions into Arabia and India. [365-3]

Your Past Life Decanates

According to an ancient Vedic astrology method still practiced in India, Past Life Planets are realms in which you sojourned between earth lifetimes. They are identified through the position of your sidereal Sun and Moon in the decanates (a decanate is a one-third division of a zodiac sign; each is ruled by a planet). Any patterns involving these Past Life Planets are therefore of special importance. Pay extra attention, then, to any sections of your Report which interpret these planets.

NOTE: If your Sun and Moon are both located in a decanate which is ruled by the same planet, then only the Sun position is interpreted; the Moon's decanate position, being the same as the Sun's, therefore does not need to be interpreted.

Your Sun is in Aquarius Decanate

Your sidereal Sun is in the decanate of Aquarius, which is co-ruled by Uranus and Saturn. Being the "Atlantean" planet, Uranus especially brings you highly original yet extremist urges, with clairvoyant capacities and special abilities in psychic, metaphysical and scientific or technological areas.

Your soul experience in the realm of Uranus between earth lives, perhaps immediately after your prominent lifetime in Atlantis, gives you distinct potentials for fame or infamy, for evolution or revolution, for service or self. This makes the cultivation and consistent application of guiding ideals of potentially great value for you this go 'round.

Your Moon is in Taurus Decanate

Your sidereal Moon is in TAURUS decanate, which is ruled by Venus. Venus as Past Life Planet points to high priorities in creativity, sociability and relationships, especially in your family/home life and in the world of nature. Urges toward these experiences and interests from your sojourn in the Venus dimension are likely to originate in parallel lifetimes of soul development through these areas of self-expression.

Especially indicated are lives in the early Jewish-Christian Church and later as an artist-musician in modern times, whether in the West (Europe and/or America), or in modern or colonial Asia.
